

InHand Edge Computing Gateway IG902-H

The new IoT edge computing gateway of InHand aims to utilize IoT technologies to support the digital transformation of industries. The product features powerful edge computing capabilities, to reduce cloud-end computing resources, and realize data optimization, real-time response, agile connection and model analysis on the IoT edge, further advancing the development of digital networking in the AI era.